CHART I

25X1 This chart is based on the assumptions: (1) that Phases II and III, both given at [] will be offered on a 4-week and 4-week basis; (2) that both these Phases will have enough personnel to allow their overlapping; (3) that it is psychologically feasible to put a student through eleven weeks of basic training, uninterrupted; and (4) that enough demand exists to warrant the frequent offerings of the courses represented.

In the case of the advanced courses, if the runnings are too frequent, one can always be dropped. Sufficient time is left between the offerings, however, to allow for the addition of an extra offering if demands indicate its necessity.

Recommendation. Since this plan, built on a five-week cycle, is very tightly scheduled, it should serve only to clear up the tremendous backlogs which have built up for almost all courses in TR(S). Course offerings should then conform to a seven, nine, and even an eleven week schedule. Concomitantly, offerings of the Senior Officers' Operational Security Course and the Covert Activities Refresher Course could become more frequent.

The red lines on this chart indicate the flow of students (EOD's) from their first entrance into BIC(GS). Depending on their future assignments, they could pass directly from a complete Basic Training Program into any of the phases of Advanced Training indicated.
